Blue Mesa Review, Number 10: Love and Sex in the 21st Century

Fiction, poetry, essays, interviews, and reviews address love and sex-gay and straight, joyful and dangerous-in this theme issue of the annual Blue Mesa Review. Among the contributors are Jane Caputi, Walt McDonald, Alberto Rios, and Kathleen Spivack.

"Love and sex are the primary concerns of America at the end of the millennium: from soap operas to selling cars, from eating disorders to the most obese populace in history, Americans are filling their spiritual and emotional emptiness-their yearnings for relationship-with french fries, technological toys, recreational machines, and carnal fantasies. The media has sunk to the level of the pulp rags at check-out counters in their pursuit of scandal and titillation. But, despite the shadow side of the modern psyche, love and sex remain the indisputable keys for opening the doors to a new age of sisterhood and brotherhood,of peace in a global community."--David Johnson, Editor's note
