Student nurses and other students preparing for careers in the various medical professions will find this set of flash cards an invaluable learning tool to help them prepare for anatomy exams. Each card presents an anatomically accurate line illustration that shows a human body part or system. Students will find that memorization is made easier yet, as they are instructed to to shade each card's bone, muscle, or organ, using the enclosed set of colored pencils. Color each part is an effective method for imprinting its shape in students' memories, which will make later visualization and recognition that much easier. Each flash card is labeled on its reverse side with the part's anatomical name and its location in the human body.
